Sport and Democracy

Dr Chevelle Hall 侯雪菲, International Visiting Fellow, Taiwan Foundation for Democracy, and Assistant Professor at Hampton University, Virginia

Date: Friday, July 30, 2010
Time: 15:00 – 17:00
Location: Taiwan Foundation for Democracy (No 4, Alley 17, Lane 147, Xinyi Rd Sec 3, Taipei 106 Taiwan)

Itinerary:

15:00 – 15:10 Opening remarks
15:10 – 16:00 “Sport and Democracy” by Dr Chevelle Hall
16:00 – 17:00 Open discussion with the audience

Please note that this event will be conducted entirely in English.

The merging of cultures helps rid society of stereotypes and nurtures a tolerant environment. Examples are Kobe Bryant’s popularity with Chinese and Yao Ming’s popularity with Americans. Sport is regularly immersed in politics, for better or worse. Examples are the Beijing Olympics, Olympics during the Cold War and Ping-Pong Diplomacy during Nixon-Mao relations.

Quantitative and qualitative methods utilizing cross-sectional survey procedures have guided the analysis for this investigation. Confidential surveys to high school student-athletes were administered in Taiwan. The presentation will assess the role of sport in bridging the divide between cultures.
